

Your gums & your heart

Bleeding gums. A small thing, until it isn't.

Your gums and your heart are linked.

A joint report from the European Federation of Periodontology and the World Heart Federation found that gum disease is associated with heart disease.

"A link,
not proof."

Gum disease hasn't been shown to cause heart disease, and treating your gums isn't proven to prevent it.

We'd rather tell you that plainly.

What your gums are telling you.

-
- 01 They bleed when you brush or floss
 - 02 They look red or swollen
 - 03 Your breath stays bad, whatever you do
-

One thing to do

This month, ask your dentist to look at your gums, not just your teeth.

In nine NHS areas, more people now see a private dentist than an NHS one.

Coming soon

Dentistry, at The Wellness.

Save this, and send it to someone who's been putting off the dentist.